

ENTERTAINED FOR KIWANIS LADIES

Club Observes Halloween
at Fourth Annual Event
Held in Tulsa

Hotel Tulsa became the scene for the entertainment planned by members of the Kiwanis club for their fourth annual Halloween party. The affair was held in the ballroom of the hotel, and was a most cleverly planned and brilliant affair. The affair was attended by approximately 200 Tulsa folk and more than 25 guests from out of town, who are prominent in business in the state of Oklahoma.

At 7:30 P. M. the president of the club, S. C. Henshaw, chairman of the reception, introduced the guests. He was followed by the following: Victor E. Miles, Frank H. Caswell, Charles W. Lewis, T. T. Baker, H. H. Hart, E. C. Long, Everett Matting, Arthur Henshaw, and others. The program consisted of the singing of the national anthem, and a presentation of the Kiwanis club flag.

John H. Woodard, newly elected district governor, made his first address since taking office. "Kiwanis in Tulsa and Oklahoma," was his theme. He commended the club for its work in the city and state.

H. V. Hatfield, district governor from Oklahoma City and J. Berry King from Muskogee made talks. Dr. J. W. Givens, physician, also spoke.

In his usual versatile manner, J. C. Long, chairman of the entertainment, introduced the guests of the evening. He had with him a number of guests from out of town, who, although he could not talk English, had a wonderful imagination and out of the depths of it would play for the entertainment of the guests. The first act was the singing of the national anthem.

Pumpkins, cornstalks, profusion of autumn leaves and chrysanthemums, and lighted shades in black and yellow made effective decorations for both the tables and the ballroom. A huge and brilliant K. K. outlined in electric lights was near the speakers' table in the dining room. The Tulsa Jazz Pirates and Hawaiian singers furnished music during the banquet and for dancing later. The affair took on the appearance of a carnival when the guests donned the multi-colored and fancy hats given at the dance as favors.

Responsibility for the success of last night's affair rests in large measure upon E. J. Nowmaster, general chairman of the committee on arrangements and the members of that committee.

TEACHERS RUM'S STRONGEST FOES

Credit for Prohibition Is Given Instructors by the W. C. T. U.

America has prohibition today largely because the school teachers of the land have given scientific temperance instruction for the past decade. W. C. T. U. workers told teachers at a reception given by the North side union yesterday afternoon in the Methodist church for the families of Osage, Pequotah, Cherokee, Creek and Seminole. It was the speakers' contention that, although the labor of temperance workers has been fruitless, it was the seed implanted by the schoolmaster which blossomed out in the battle box two years ago.

Proof of Statement

Perhaps an even stronger proof was offered than the fact that the speakers, Mrs. A. B. Hillman, of Sapulpa, whose hair has grown gray in service for prohibition, and who is now honorary president of the Oklahoma W. C. T. U., Mrs. J. W. Jones, of Tulsa, state president, and Mrs. Lillian D. Lindsey, city W. C. T. U. president, have all been teachers in the public schools.

Mrs. Lindsey was the first public school teacher in this city, coming here in 1886 as a representative of a home mission board and teaching in other parts of the territory. Mrs. Lindsey recalled that at a national W. C. T. U. convention in Nashville, Tenn., about 1905, some one suggested that everyone who had ever taught stand up and practically the entire convention was on its feet in a minute. "So you see who it was that secured the eighteenth amendment," it was the school teachers," Mrs. Lindsey concluded.

In the same breath with which the W. C. T. U. representatives praised teachers for their work in the past, they plead for greater cooperation in the future, in the interest of retaining and enforcing the prohibitory law.
